

Press Release

OS+H ASIA RETURNS FROM 29 – 31 AUGUST 2018 WITH A FULL SUITE OF EXPERTISES AND SOLUTIONS TO TACKLE NEW CHALLENGES AT THE MODERN WORKPLACE.

2 October 2017 – Amidst strong demands for safety technologies to accommodate raising OSH standards, the 11th edition of OS+H Asia, The Occupational Safety + Health Exhibition for Asia returns in August 2018. Organised by Messe Düsseldorf Asia, the essential trade exhibition will present an enriched focus on safety, security and healthcare at the modern workplace.

Having established a prominent presence in the field of workplace safety and health, OS+H Asia continues to grow with every edition. The three-day biennial exhibition will continue to serve Asia's robust workplace safety and health industry with 7 renewed focus areas on Work at Height, Fire Protection, Environmental Control, Crisis and Emergency Management, Workplace Ergonomics, Smart Technologies and Health at Work; creating a total solutions platform for OSH practitioners and industry professionals.

Held in conjunction with the exhibition are The Singapore WSH Conference and the much anticipated Forum on Workplace Safety and Health. These parallel events will bring together a focused multidisciplinary international group of OSH professionals, thought-leaders and government officials who are committed to improving the workplace environment.

The upcoming edition of OS+H Asia is once again boosted by a strong regional and international representation as more than 200 exhibitors from 25 countries populate the show floor. Reiterating the healthy global appeal of the exhibition are five national pavilions and country groups featuring China, Malaysia, Russia, Singapore and Taiwan.

Advancement in technology and emerging labour market trends are constantly re-shaping the landscape of the workplace. In recent years, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has made rapid progress in raising OSH standards, performance and capabilities. Singapore for instance, has taken strides in improving workplace safety and health over the past decade. The workplace fatality rate in Singapore was 1.9 per 100,000 workers in 2016¹, and is well on course to reaching the target of less than 1.8. In search for new frontiers, the Singapore government has launched a fund of up to $2 million to support institutes and companies in developing cutting-edge solutions to reduce workplace fatalities from vehicular accidents².

As the region experiences an economic boom with robust industrial developments across building and construction, medical and healthcare, transportation and telecommunications infrastructure, hospitality and tourism, vast numbers of workers are exposed to risks at work. OS+H Asia is recognised as the long-standing and highly necessary occupational safety and health trade

Concurrent events

The Singapore WSH Conference 2018

Established as a premier platform for workplace safety and health (WSH) stakeholders across the region, The Singapore WSH Conference 2018 will once again bring together WSH professionals, business leaders and government officials with the industry's most respected voices to share and learn the latest trends and developments impacting WSH and its practice.

Forum on Workplace Safety and Health 2018

The concurrently held forum will gather regional WSH experts, specialists and manufacturers to share their insights on strategic capabilities in workplace safety and health. The forum will offer an opportunity to gain special insights from policy makers and thought leaders, as well as hear about good practice and experience built-up from leading practitioners and organisations. Learn and benefit from discussions on emerging issues in WSH, competency requirements for WSH professionals and latest WSH technological advances and innovations.
